„Chinese Medicine and Spirituality: Cultivation of the Practitioner, the Healer and the Alchemist“

Christine Bodenschatz-Li, Germany

Christine Bodenschatz-Li studied Sinology, Ethnology and Western Medicine in Germany. Parallel to this she spent five years at the Shanghai and Beijing Universities of Traditional Chinese Medicine, studying acupuncture, herbs and the history of Chinese Medicine.

Later, especially since 1996 when she started working in her own practice in Hamburg her interests shifted from classical TCM back in time to the shamanic roots of Chinese medicine. In order to apply what seemed to be a rather blurred tradition she engaged in studies of Hypnotherapy (in which she holds a license), craniosacral therapy, rthobionomy and core shamanism (with Michael Harner). More importantly she learned with healers from southern Tibet, South Dakota (Lakota), Cuba and the Amazon. Since 2008 she is practicing in Germany again and tries to put everything, including herself, back together while working with her amazingly trusting and enthusiastic international clientele.

Christine is also a great fan of Laozi, Li Dongyuan, Bao Gu (the wife of Alchemist Ge Hong), Rumi, Hugo del Carril and Oscar Wilde.
