Congress interviews

We have spoken with some of the people who have signed up for the congress in September:

Nigel Ching, author and teacher, Association of Acupuncture Practitioners (PA)

The Scandinavian TCM congress offers teaching on a high international level. You get to meet some of the strongest names of TCM in the world. Furthermore, you meet fellow practitioners and experience a collegial togetherness. And you find inspiration and knowledge on the highest possible level.

Teaching on a high international level

What are you looking forward to – how do you expect to benefit from the congress?
The Scandinavian TCM Congress is a great opportunity to get teaching at a level which I cannot get everywhere. And it is also an opportunity to meet some of the greatest names of TCM in the world. People that you do not meet everyday. The standard of teaching at the congress is very high.

Mona Nygaard, Norwegian Acupuncture Association (NAFO)

I look forward to networking in a beautiful part of the world, and at the same time get valuable information to bring home to the clinic. For me it is important that the knowledge is on the highest possible level.

The practical workshops give you something to bring home in your clinic

What do you look forward to most at the congress?

I look very much forward to the practical workshop. I have signed up for workshop in tongue diagnosis with Barbara Kirschbaum. After reading her books I look forward to meeting her in person. But this goes also for the other teachers. Meeting these people who are on the top list of the TCM teachers in the world will be very exciting.

Cecilie Brewer, president, Norwegian Acupuncture Association (NAFO)

It is important to join the international TCM group and be a part of a bigger picture. By being a big, strong group we can set the rules for the future. At the same time you lift your knowledge as a practitioner to a higher level. We must get to know each other across borders in order to act as a group and be stronger together.

The Scandinavian TCM Congress is part of a bigger picture

What does networking mean to you?

Networking is everything to me. And it is extremely important that we get to know each other across borders in Scandinavia, but also in the rest of the world. TCM will be more and more integrated in the western medicine, and it is vital that we know exactly what we stand for as a group, and that we act as a group. When you have met someone in person – a fellow practitioner or a teacher on international level – it is much easier to connect afterwards.
